“Crew Supervisor”

❖ Jamie Vollmer

A friend of public education, he is a former businessman and attorney who now works to help strengthen community support for public schools and build professional pride among educators. His uplifting, intelligent, and funny presentations entertain and energize educators, business leaders, and community groups. He is a powerful ally in the struggle to create schools that give all students the opportunity to unfold their full potential.

10:00 am Keynote Address

Susan Hall

“Crew Supervisor”

A co-author, with Louisa C. Moats, Ed.D., of Straight Talk About Reading and Parenting A Struggling Reader, she has served on the IDA National Board of Directors. Susan suggests that determining the instructional approach a teacher or school district is using critical to helping a child struggling with reading. One of the best ways to help a child who is struggling is to try an alternative approach usually one more explicit and systematic- before deciding to test for a possible learning disability.
